

Artwork: "Ensemble"

Sandra E. Hernandez

The shattered mirrored glass background is meant to reflect our broken reality of equity. The two hands of different skin tones are a vision of unity and acceptance. The small growing flowers is a reference to the masterpiece called "Guernica" created by Pablo Picasso in reaction to the Spanish civil war. This relates to how our past and present has had an ongoing race war. The delicate flowers are a symbol of hope and the growth of humanity when all come together.
